c. SGLs will supervise and guide the learning process. This is done through checks on learning, frequent reinforcement of training, and monitoring progress of assignments. SGLs will listen to student questions and provide answers in a timely and professional manner. Additionally, SGLs observe student work on practical exercises to help gauge comprehension.

d. Successful practice is the foundation for successful performance assessments. SGLs should provide feedback to all students immediately following all performance assessments. This allows for students who receive a NO GO to examine how they can improve and reinforces best practices for those who receive a GO.

e. SGLs should be alert to students having difficulty and intervene as appropriate. SGLs will monitor student progress to identify learning deficiencies. Deficiencies may occur in isolation or in combination with others and might originate with the student, learning environment, or other outside factors. Once learning problems are identified, SGLs must respond with corrective action to help the student remedy the deficiency. Remediation may be needed for some students. This could include additional training or simply answering student questions.

f. Prior to the start of the course, SGLs will distribute the student guide and ISAP to the students and explain the graduation requirements.

g. SGLs will ensure students are aware of and comply with safety and environmental protection rules, regulations, laws, and course requirements.

h. SGLs will counsel all students at the beginning of the course regarding their academic rating chain, academic and non-academic expectations. Students will also be counseled during the course as needed to address any issues that may arise regarding academic performance or failure to meet course expectations.

i. SGLs will provide remediation for students having difficulty. In some cases, the SGL may find it necessary to provide more extensive remediation before proceeding. Remediation can be accomplished by providing additional instruction from the platform for the entire class or by utilization of peer instruction.

j. Course effectiveness and efficiency should be gauged continuously. Feedback should be provided to the course manager and course developer on a regular basis. Whether or not a course is meeting its objectives can be determined by how students are performing on the assessments. A "first time pass rate" can be found by studying student assessment records. SGLs should anticipate a 75 percent first time pass rate on all performance assessments. Additionally, students will be provided an opportunity to complete After Action Reviews and an EOCS. SGLs should encourage them to be candid and specific about issues, and to suggest potential solutions. SGLs should keep a permanent record of recurring problems, errors in materials, and suggestions for changes that occur during the course. The SGL has a pivotal role in improving the course and should make every effort to do so with the course training developer.

8. Student Guidance

It is the responsibility of the student to learn and perform the learning objectives to the specified standard. This includes completing the homework assignments, completing practical exercises, and participating in training activities.

a. The student will be provided the ISAP and student guide before instruction starts. The use/importance of these items and student responsibilities must be thoroughly explained to the students.

b. Students will have the opportunity to provide constructive criticism concerning the efficiency and effectiveness of the training and training materials.

9. Assessment Administration Guidance

a. This course is standards based. Assessments measure whether the student meets the required standards or established levels of performance. Students will be assessed individually according to those standards and not relative to the performance of other students. The GO score represents an acceptable standard for job performance. Therefore, a student cannot graduate from the course until they meet the stated standard for all assessments.

b. This course contains realistic, performance-based assessments. The assessments used in this course duplicate the actual job requirements as much as possible. Passing the assessment means the student is capable of performing adequately on the job.

c. This course allows time for remediation. The training program's design provides for early identification and resolution of student learning problems. The SGL can detect student learning deficiencies using checks on learning, practical exercises (PEs), and assessments. Once detected, SGLs can use a variety of reinforcement techniques to correct deficiencies.
